Customization requirements

Liangneng Technology has received special scientific research funding for key scientific and technological research from the Shenzhen Science and Technology Innovation Commission, and successfully developed high-safety lithium-ion battery technology, so this technology was applied to customized products to solve safety problems;

Soft-pack polymer lithium batteries can maximize the space utilization of ultrasonic beauty instruments and protect the parts of the products. The size of ultrasonic beauty instrument products is also lighter and more flexible than before.

The customer's ultrasonic beauty instrument products are widely used by major merchants and beauty salons.

A beauty instrument company manufacturer previously purchased ultrasonic beauty instrument batteries from a friendly company. They contacted Liangneng Technology on the Internet, and had long heard that Liangneng was very professional in the field of personal care beauty instruments, so they entrusted our company to customize it with confidence.
